1. 56th Committee Meeting.

1.1. EEMC/IEEE Symposium

Much discussion was recorded on the EEMC Symposium, primarily centred on the poor attendance and reporting on the Symposium. Various members of the Committee commented adversely on the A.B.C. for quoting part only of the keynote address by Sir Philip Baxter, with no reference to IEEE at all. The Chairman elected to make comment to the A.B.C. and requested Mr. P.I. Somlo to draft a letter. Comments on the attendance at the Paper Session:

- a. Incorrect Timing. The symposium closely followed other Technical Paper Sessions and Symposia in Sydney and Canberra. Few Academics could attend in October.
- b. The IEEE papers were delivered on the last two days of the four day EEMC Exhibition.
- c. Four topics were possibly too many. One major topic may have been better.
- d. The session papers could have included practical matters of the day.
- e. H. Blanks, IREE Aust. has offered to publish EEMC papers in Monitor. IEEE to accept with thanks.
- f. Prof. Karbowski has offered to assist in increasing attendance at future symposia.

1.2. There was general opinion that technical paper sessions should continue to be held by the Australian Section. Future symposia to be arranged to attract industrial participation.

1.3. Promotion

There was general discussion on how the interest of all members of the Australian Section can be stimulated. The Chairman pointed out the merits of committee member association with leaders in education, industry and the media. It is of importance that the Committee bear in mind the promotion of IEEE to industry at appropriate levels. This should be vigorously pursued. The Chairman pointed out one avenue of doing this possibly would be to accept the offer of the Australian Electrical World to mail this journal free to IEEE members. Following general discussion, it was decided to defer acceptance of the offer from the Australian Electrical World for the time being, so that ways and means to benefit IEEE more could be planned.

2. The Minutes of the 55th Committee Meeting having been circulated were adopted subject to point 5.2 on motion by Peter Somlo who moved an amendment to the reading that the print-out requirement is for Australian Section and not Student Member List.
